A reception was given last evening at the home of Mrs. O. D. Skinner in honor of Miss Dollie Curtis, sister of Congressman Curtis.

Between the hours of seven and eleven the parlors were filled with friends and acquaintances who admired the pretty decorations of smilax and golden rod, listened to the music of the Alhambra mandolin club and chatted pleasantly with one another.

Mrs. Skinner in an elegant black silk costume was assisted in receiving by Miss Curtis, in a cream shot silk with trimmings of pearl passementerie and point d'esprit lace, Miss Maud Brazier in a white wool gown, and Miss Mary Davis in cream albatross with ribbon garni-

Ices were served in the dining room during the entire evening and little Misses Safford, Permie Certis and Mabel Skinner, presided here. Miss Edna Parkburst's singing was highly entertaining, and the success of the affair was undoubted.

Miss Bergen's Party. Miss Lida Bergen was hostess to a merry party of girls yesterday afternoon and nothing was left unprovided which could have added pleasure to the affair. One of the amusements had at least novelty to recommend it, and when each guest had been provided with a slip of heavy paper to which were attached a penny and a tiny pencil, all were curious to know what came next Across the back of the paper which was folded, was written, "A penny for your thoughts." Inside were the different parts of an en-igma, to be solved by the use of the various figures on the surface of the penny. Some of the combinations required very clever guessing, and Miss Santa Waters received a prize for proving herself the brightest in this line. Many of the guests provided music for the amusement of the others, who were: Misses Medora and Fannie Rowley, Edna Morehouse, Florence Clark, Mabel Knowles, Lillian Tefft, Santa and Fe Waters, Dalsy Surprise For Mrs. Morgan.
